This Week At MCG...

Bridging Home and School

MashaAllah, approximately two months have passed and the students are now comfortable with the routines at school. We have established cues which allow the students to change activities quite smoothly and confidently. We also make an effort to ask about home life on a daily basis; It could be asking them about their sibling, parents, or simply asking them what they had for breakfast. Our goal is to bridge home and school for them as these are often the two places they spend most of their time. You can also help connecting home and school by asking your child about their day at school- What they learned, who they played with and really just talking about their experiences. Also, revisiting academic material we have taken to date will help your child strengthen their skills. Let's work together to make the most of their preschool experience.
